Q.1. Read the following passage and answer the question briefly. [Marks-5]

Goldsmith the famous author, had studied medicine in his youth, with an intention of becoming a doctor. A poor woman, whose husband was ill, had heard that he was a very kind-hearted person. She therefore, sent him a letter asking him to prescribe for the sick man. She wrote that she troubled him because she was unable to pay the doctor's fee. Goldsmith, went to her house immediately. He saw that patient was dying for want of nourishing food. After some talk, He left the house, saying that in an hour or so he would send a few pills. They would give the patient some relief. He went home and put some guineas in to a pill-box. On it he wrote "To be taken as necessity requires. Be patient. Do not lose hope of recovery." A messenger was sent with the packet. The sick man found that it contained a remedy better than the doctor's drugs. The generous act had its rewards, for in a few weeks the man was able to visit him and thanked him for the timely aid.
